

Merger Update

A change for good: better digital banking is coming

Better digital banking is headed to members this summer, and there's plenty to look forward to. Like customizing your dashboard so you can access what matters to you the most, even faster. A clean, familiar design that just makes sense. Handy new built-ins for things like member transfers and financial tools. Plus, improved, next-level security features including multi-factor authentication options and custom alerts. It all adds up to a faster, better way to bank.

This upgrade is one of the first benefits of our merger. It comes at an exciting time as our name begins to change to Wings Credit Union. You'll start to see a new logo and colors, along with expanded giving to Colorado communities and causes.

All while what you love about your credit union stays the same, like putting members like you before profits. What's not changing includes:

- Your accounts, checks, credit cards, debit cards and the routing number (ongoing testing will determine if account numbers stay the same)
- Our 60+ Colorado service centers (and growing)
- A Colorado Springs headquarters
- The great people in our service centers
- Our CEO who's been with Ent for 20+ years

Everything you love about Ent is everything you'll love about Wings. You can look forward to updates on more merger benefits – like this summer's digital banking upgrade – as they progress.

Colorado community focus

Financial Literacy Month support

This April, in recognition of Financial Literacy Month, we partnered with the Pikes Peak Area Agency on Aging in Colorado Springs to help older adults learn how to protect themselves and their finances. Together, we hosted a Protect Yourself from Scams & Identity Theft class, offered both in person and online to make it accessible for more people.

The session was led by our Financial Wellbeing team, alongside Brad Lynch, a former FBI agent and a leader on our fraud team. Drawing on real-world experience, they shared how scams work, common red flags to watch for, and practical ways to reduce risk. A few key reminders to help you and your family stay safe:

- Pause before responding to urgent or high-pressure requests
- Never send money or share personal information without verifying first
- When in doubt, contact the organization directly using a trusted phone number or website

These small steps can make a big difference in protecting your financial well-being.

And learning doesn't stop in April. We offer free webinars year-round on a wide variety of financial education topics, from fraud prevention to budgeting and financial planning. You can explore upcoming sessions and register at Ent.com/events.

Two operating systems, one goal

As our name transitions to Wings, you may have noticed the Ent logo with the words Becoming Wings Credit Union next to it. Part of “Becoming Wings” includes bringing our two large credit unions’ operating systems together. To learn more, see the frequently asked questions below.

Q Do I need to change how I bank with Ent now?

A How you bank with us will stay the same for now. If something changes, we’ll let you know ahead of time and guide you along the way.

Q When will the operating systems be combined and upgraded?

A While we’ve already begun planning and initial preparation work, we estimate the single, combined operating system will be live in about two years.

Q What do these operating systems do?

A They power essential, daily banking operations. Among other functions, they make transactions happen in real-time across multiple channels, including service centers, digital banking and ATMs/ITMs.

Q Why does combining the two systems take so long?

A Combining operating systems takes extensive planning and testing and offers the opportunity to not only merge systems, but also to upgrade them simultaneously.

Q How will members benefit from combining the two systems?

A Advantages include faster transactions, accelerated roll-out of new products, rapid release of new digital banking tools and increased security. Having a single, upgraded operating system builds a strong technical foundation to support future growth and ongoing innovation so we can keep up with – and anticipate – your future banking needs. It’s also the first step toward making Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Florida and Georgia locations available to Colorado members.

Q Will my data remain safe during the transition?

A Yes, keeping your information safe and secure is always our top priority. We follow all regulatory guidelines and industry best practices.
